The Bachelor and the Cat.

By STUART B. STONE.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

The fluffy haired, hazel eyed young lady was speaking of the play at the Belleville Opera House.

"It is the prettiest bit of sentiment. There's the quaintest pair of lovers, and they go through fire, water, persecution and plague, but it works out beautifully in the end."

Thereupon bashful Captain Grant, at the head of the table, sniffed polite disapproval.

The cheery young bank clerk who sat next to the hazel eyed girl told of the "best selling" romance he was reading. It was "The Loves of Lady Perilla," and Captain Grant frowned at the title.

Then the young man leaned over and talked in low tones to the fluffy haired girl. The girl colored in delicious bewilderment. The young man's merry eyes sobered, and Mrs. Ogden Carter winked at Mrs. Newman Appleby across the table. Captain Grant saw the byplay of hearts and growled into his plate of Boston beans. After that, in a faint sweet cloud of helle-trope, the lilac lady entered.

She was in the early thirties, rather tall and thin, with a wreath of glossy black hair and big, gray eyes scattering sympathy. Touches of lilac here and there relieved the black.

The boarders "sized up" the new-comer—some with a tinge of envy of the splendid, shining hair, others with listless conjecture as to whether she came from Cape Cod or from Kokomo. But Captain Grant looked covertly at the lady and sighed so manifestly from the heart that a little ripple of amused wonder went around the tables. Blushing vividly, the captain arose and strutted hurriedly out.

The captain held little part in the babble of the table, but next day he spoke to Miss Inola Marshall, the new boarder, regarding the probability of rain. The lilac lady smiled charmingly, admitting the shrewdness of the forecast. From one labored confidence in a day this man, who had sniffed at the prospect of young hearts confiding, attained to a running comment of anecdote and observation.

Miss Inola was gracious; so, after a bit, noticing the captain and the lady deep in discussion, Mrs. Carter smiled at Mrs. Appleby, and the young clerk had his hazel eyed girl to himself, with no one to snort because they talked in the low, earnest tones of lovers.

Things went thus beautifully until the coming of Zenobia. Zenobia was plump and sleek and sandy and white streaked, like a faded tigress. She was endowed with a cavernous yawn and a lulling, musical purr, and she had a way of curling up on the precious skirts of women to dream fitful things of the chase of the hard pressed mouse.

The glances of a cat was as a picture of gold to Miss Inola, but the captain detested all of her kind. When Zenobia crept softly to the dining room and some unseeing barbarian stepped on her ringed tail, so that she squaled in despair, it was a question whether the captain did not chuckle grimly.

Miss Inola, loving Zenobia dearly, could not help but hold it against him in her heart. Finally Zenobia, sighing for sympathy, thrust her plump sides against the trousers leg of the captain, leaving soft, yellow hairs for remembrance. It affected him like the clammy contact of a serpent.

"What do you see in that cat?" he demanded.

"More than I see in you," Miss Inola flared back.

That settled it. The captain retired to his den and tried vainly to interest himself in three volumes of the history of the Sudan, and Miss Inola, petting and pampering the glances Zenobia, almost wished that she might die. For a month Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Appleby had only the young bank clerk and the hazel eyed girl for winking and smiling exchange.

The last night in the month the captain lounged disconsolately in his smoking gown, dividing his time between a dissertation on Moroccan bandits and the perversities of women in lilac.

"The Moorish bandit is gruff, grim and inured to hardship," read the captain and nodded, knowing they were miles and miles away.

"She is the only woman I could ever care a straw for," murmured the captain, alert and sighing, for Madam of the Lilacs was only across the narrow hall.

A full fed, lazy cat purred in the corridor, descended the steps and yowled for companionship in the yard below. The captain shut his mouth tight and went back to learn of the bandit. The Dutch windmill of a clock chimed 9. The cry was repeated nearer.

"Fire! Fire!"

The captain bounded to the door, arrayed like a rajah for glory. Miss Inola almost telescoped him.

"Where is it?" she demanded. The window disclosed a fierce blaze quite near. "The Golden Rule warehouse," answered the captain, and they both descended hurriedly.

A crowd had gathered, shouting, gesticulating, yet not venturing near the burning warehouse.

"Why don't they put it out?" asked Captain Grant.

"Powder stored there—barrels, and barrels of it," volunteered some one.

Mrs. Appleby approached Miss Inola. "Your cat Zenobia just went in there."

Miss Inola moaned: "Poor little Zenobia! She'll be blown into the moon!"

Captain Grant started to speak and checked himself. Then, coloring violently, he announced: "Don't go on in that way, Miss Inola. I'm going to rescue Zenobia."

Miss Inola stared, colored on her own account and extended her hand. "William," she called him for the first time, "you are good and brave and true."

The captain proudly raised his head, girded his flowery, high colored gown about him and waded into the zone of glimmering light.

"Hey, there! Danger! Powder! Come back, man!" bawled the spectators. But Captain Grant strode grimly on. The last words of the lilac lady rang in his ears—"You are good and brave and true."

He heard the cat yowl frantically, and he charged like an Assyrian host. "William, William, William!" her voice kept calling to him. The door was fastened with a rusted padlock, but the captain easily broke through the rotten thing. "Brave and true, brave and true," he kept repeating.

The structure was doomed, but here just within the door it was rather dark and thick with smoke. He could make out the barrels and tried to avoid them. "Kitty, kitty, kitty!" he called.

He stumbled over something, caught at a barrel and plunged into its yawning top. His arms rammed into a soft, fleecy, choking mass. Scrambling up, he overturned two others and rolled on the floor.

Finally he regained his feet, covered from head to foot with the pulverized, clinging substance. A cat howled somewhere, and he turned toward the door. Zenobia sat upon her haunches twenty feet in front of the warehouse spitting and howling like a feline demon. The captain stepped out into the light. He was covered, plastered, buried, frescoed, coated with flour.

The crowd stirred in the distance. Tompkins, proprietor of the Golden Rule, had arrived. "There's no powder," he exclaimed. "Those barrels contain flour. Come on!" The mob came like a hurricane.

"Look at Captain Grant!" they shouted gleefully—"flour all over his dressing gown and on his face and hair! Looks like a ghost!"

"Well, I'll be eternally flattered!" fumed the captain. He kicked at the screaming Zenobia and, missing, nearly fell upon his back. Particles of dust adhered to the flour, giving him a glorious checkered appearance. He turned and ran from the maddening crowd, a white, gorgeous specter of the night.

As he scaled the picket fence some one called to him, but he paid no heed. He bounded down the little lane with Berserker vim and fury. The person who had called ran through a gate and stood in the road to check him. The captain, wild, chagrined, unseeing, waved his arms, put on more steam and growled deadly menace.

"William, William!" called a soft, sweet voice.

The captain, checking, flapped at the flour in his eyes.

"Oh, you are brave and true, but you do look like a fright!" said Miss Inola, and she broke down and sobbed before the captain, taking alarm again, could bound away.

"There, there, don't cry!" he admonished. "That spittfire Zenobia's all right and will live to be ten thousand."

Then he took her in his arms until she became white with the dazzle of the flour.

Regatta in England.

The first regatta in England was in 1775, and it was imported into that country by Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, who had been impressed by the water show of Venice. There was no series of races. There was a procession of city barges to a "temporary octagon," where there was revelling that night and well into the next day. Only seven of the company were drowned on the return journey, which speaks well for the average sobriety of the crowd.—London King.

Train and Track.

One man in every twelve in the United States is on the payroll of a railroad.

Belgium's complete system of narrow gauge steam railways connecting all the towns and villages with the main centers is being electrified.

A Denver syndicate has bought the Argentine Central railroad in Colorado and will extend the line to the top of Gray's peak, 342 feet higher than the point reached by the Pike's peak cog road.

READ ALOUD EVERY DAY.

A Strengthening Exercise For Women to Practice.

A famous doctor not long ago advised one of his women patients to read aloud an hour each day for the benefit of her lungs. An easy cure thought the woman. But to her surprise she not only found the exercise fatiguing, but learned that she read abominably.

Not one person in a hundred reads well. The voice is pitched so high that the throat suffers or is so low and mumbly that listeners are maddened in the effort to follow.

To read for hours without feeling it throw the voice well forward, so that vibrations strike the upper lip, and pitch it so that there is no strain either on the throat muscles or on the ear of the listener.

There are some persons who read as if in bonds to get through a given number of words in a stated time. Very fast reading is hard to follow and is particularly deplorable if one is reading to a convalescent. Equally bad is a dragging style that makes one long for a prod. Read quickly, but enunciate each syllable clearly and distinctly.

To read as if one were practicing elocution is extremely bad style, remarks a writer. Never aim at expressiveness. If you have a fine sense of the text unconsciously the voice takes on the correct modulation. Stilted or artificial reading is not to be tolerated.

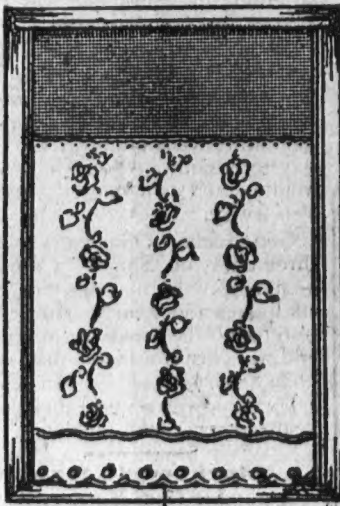

Learn to read naturally, in a pleasant voice, with special attention to enunciation. It is an art no woman can afford to be without. There are many times when one must read aloud, without voice, and a consciousness of being a poor reader does not make it easier.

Another advantage of reading aloud is the attention it calls to pronunciation. Words that one has read silently from youth we often find we have mispronounced only when they are first read in company. For this reason it is important that girls and boys be trained in reading aloud beyond what they get in school. It is well to keep a pencil and pad in hand to jot down any word of whose meaning and pronunciation one is not certain.

VENTILATING SHADE.

A Clever Contrivance For Admitting Air Without Annoyance.

Most of us nowadays know better than to sleep with closed windows and would as soon think of taking poisonous food as breathe vitiated air. The ancient prejudice against night air has gone the way of hobgoblins and other old wives' tales, so sometimes one is disturbed by the rustling and waving of shades which fill like sails or try to behave like flags. In consequence one sometimes feels obliged to open the lower sash of a window, which is not a good or safe plan of ventilation.

The real remedy is to have a ventilating blind, which is easily managed by detaching the existing shade from its roller and adding a width of coarse canvas or still more open material, so that when the shade is quite lowered it presents a very porous surface to the open top of the window, enough to check direct draft, but not enough to exclude free passage of air or to set up a noisily wind pressure. Of course when the shade is in normal use this part is invisible, but can soon be brought into use when needed.

A Financier.

The negro, although proverbially improvident, sometimes has his weather eye open.

A man gave a dime to a young darky who had done him some trifling service. The darky handed it back. "Now, Marse Billy," he said, "you knows I doan' want no pay for what I does for you. Des gimme dat ole suit o' clo'es youse got on."

An Irish Pilgrimage.

A movement is now on foot for 10,000 Irishmen, resident in America, to make a pilgrimage to the Emerald Isle next summer.

DOTTED LINE DOTTINESS.

NEED been cutting puzzle pictures for the children every week. And at last he was in frenzy and began to wildly speak:

"Please be careful when you trim me. I'm a puzzle picture now." Then he slapped his palm with vigor on his superheated brow. "You will find complete instructions at the side of the design. But be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

"The dealer doesn't give me with the paper that you buy. Tell him that he is a robber and then await him in the eye. Lay me on the dining table when the breakfast hour is over. Or if baby wants to watch it spread me out upon the floor."

Note the letters and the figures where the sections all combine. And be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

"I'm a steamboat and an engine and a horse and wagon too. You will find that every Sunday I am always something new."

Please be careful when you're working over me with happy haste. That you do not cut your fingers or upset the pot of paste. I'm a colored puzzle picture, and I think that it is fine. But be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

So we took him by the fingers, and we led him gently out. And we put him in a wagon that was waiting thereabout. And we hauled him to the portal of the sanitarium. While he showed us how to shape him till he was a big bass drum. The attendant nodded gravely when he said, "Note my design. And be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

Cheering Him Up.

"Bill," said the invalid's friend, "I've come to cheer you up a bit like. I've brought yer a few bahrs, Bill. I fought if I was too late they'd come in 'andy for a wraef, yer know. Don't get down'earted, Bill. Lummy, don't you look gashly! But, there, keep up yer spirits, ole sport. I've come to see yer an' cheer yer up a bit. Nice little room you 'ave 'ere, but as I see to myself when I was a-comin' up, 'Wot 'a orkard staircase to get a coffin dah!'—London Globe.

Knights of Road.

"Yes, Freddy, I was nearly killed for droppin' out of a poker game once."

"How was dat?"

"Why, it was in a balloon, an' I had ter drop about 500 feet."

Knew What Was Coming.

Judge—Did you witness the accident?

Witness—I did.

Judge—At what distance?

Witness—Sixty-seven feet and nine inches.

Judge—How do you know so exactly?

Witness—Well, I knew I'd be summoned and prepared myself for all the foolish questions I knew would be put to me in court.—Kansas City Journal.

Advice.

"I'm sort o' thinkin' about—eh-behl—marryin' again," said Uncle Trotterly, who was old enough not to know better. "A handsome young wife kind o' brightens up a home, and—heh! heh!"

"Well," grimly replied the old codger, "all the advice I can offer you is to select one that will look well in black!"—Puck.

The Simple Truth.

"See here," exclaimed Mrs. Starven after the new boarder's first meal, "when I agreed to give you reduced rates you told me you were a light eater!"

"So I am, ma'am," he replied. "I'm the human salamander at the museum. You'd oughter see me swaller burnin' torches."—Catholic Standard and Times.

New Scheme.

Jimmy—What yer looking so gay about, kiddo? Yer'll get a licking when yer get home for goin' in swimmin'.

Pete—Oh, no. I told dad I had been in swimmin' and got the licking before I left home. Now I can swim without anything on my mind.

The Cape Premier.

A land surveyor by profession and an Englishman by birth, Mr. Merriman, the Premier of Cape Colony, who is at present paying a visit to this country, has made politics the principal business of his life, which has been largely spent in South Africa. His father was the Bishop of Grahamstown, and the son was educated at Dive College, Rondebosch, and at Oxford. It is forty years this year since Mr. Merriman was first elected to the Cape Parliament, in which he sat continuously until his first defeat at the polls in 1904.

KICK THE STONE.

A Game That Will Test the Ability of the Player as a Hopper.

Chalk out on the ground a figure like the accompanying diagram on a scale four feet to an inch. Two or three children can play at one diagram. The players pitch stones at the cat's face. The one who gets nearest leads off. Standing at the square end, he throws his stone into the compartment No. 1, hops in and kicks the stone out—still hopping—to the standing point. He next throws his stone into No. 2 and kicks it out as before. He next goes to No. 3, and so on until he reaches No. 8, which is called the "resting bed."

Having reached this, he may rest himself by putting his feet into Nos. 6 and 7, resuming his hopping position, however, before he proceeds as before. Until he reaches the cat's face he may have as many kicks as he likes in kicking the stone out, but when he reaches that he must kick it through all the other divisions at one single kick, the successful achievement of which crowns the game. If the stone is pitched into a wrong number or rests on one of the dividing lines the player loses his inning. If he puts both feet down while in the figure, except at the "resting bed," or sets his foot in hopping on either of the lines he suffers the same penalty.—Philadelphia Ledger.

LOST TRIBES OF ISRAEL.

What Became of Them Remains an Unsolved Problem.

The Israelitish nation was composed of twelve tribes, the descendants of the twelve sons of Jacob. Of these the tribe of Judah was divinely appointed to be the royal tribe, and the royal family of the tribe of Judah was the house of David.

Subsequently, during the reign of Jeroboam, the son of Solomon, ten tribes, led by the tribe of Ephraim, revolted, and the breach was never healed. The ten tribes constituting the house of Israel and the two tribes constituting the house of Judah were both carried into captivity as a punishment for this breach. The house of Israel was carried away by the Assyrians, who brought men from other lands and placed them in the cities that had formerly been occupied by the children of Israel. From this captivity the house of Israel never returned, and they have been known ever since as the lost ten tribes and have been sought for all over the world. What became of them is one of the unsolved problems of history.

The house of Judah was carried captive to Babylon nearly two centuries later, but after the lapse of seventy years they were allowed to return and to rebuild Jerusalem and the temple. After the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus, A. D. 70, they were driven out of the land and dispersed among the nations.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

To Teach the Blind.

The reverend ladies of the Providence Community of Montreal, having learned that there is a system in vogue in L'Arny, France, whereby instructions can be imparted to blind as well as deaf mutes, Sister Ignatius of Loyola, a talented member of their teaching staff, has been sent abroad to acquire the new system.

Reason For It.

"Why is Maude so angry with the photographer?"

"She found a label on the back of her picture saying, 'The original of this photograph is carefully preserved.'"—Boston Transcript.

The editor of the Bowden News called at the Olds hospital Monday and found things in ideal condition. The hospital has only a few patients at present, but can accommodate a dozen or more. Everything is in spic and span shape.

A reception was held on Sept. 17th, by the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Society in the new $3,500 manse. The building was afterwards thrown open for public inspection, which is a great credit to the town. A conundrum tea and impromptu concert was held in the evening at 8 o'clock. A splendid menu was presented which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. The affair was a big success financially, spiritually and morally.

Olds has a new bank—the Canadian Bank of Commerce—Wallace Duncan is manager. The bank expect to put up a new brick building soon and during the meantime are occupying the building formerly occupied by the Coulter Bros. tailors.

Dr Stewart of Calgary lost another patient last week, he having operated on Hugh McNaughton's little son, at Olds, for appendicitis. The sorrowing parents have the sympathy of the whole district in this sad death.

Do you know the difference between working and having the work done for you?

Sunlight Soap actually makes the dirt drop out—saves you time and money—but injures neither hands nor clothes. That is just the difference between Sunlight Soap and ordinary soaps.

A New City a Thousand Years Old.

Budapest, whose front is circled with lights like a crown, whose hills rise dark and feathery above the river, whose parliament buildings run along the bank and are second to none but Westminster—Budapest, bright, flashing, gay, beautiful, modern and rich, ardent and executive, close built and amalgamative, blender of peoples—is the product of only a few decades, and yet at its last exposition it celebrated its thousandth birthday. Pest, to the right of the river—for the cities are twin and divided by the Danube—Pest dates back to 1200, and Buda was the Ofen of the Romans. Buda climbs up the opposite hill, today magnificently new, but sown round with green crumbling walls that mark the passing of the original founders whose painted galleys came up the Danube from the Black sea. The twentieth century civilization, sharply new and powerful, must for a moment be brushed aside and the Buda of mediaeval times put in its stead.—Marie Van Vorst in Harper's Magazine.

Gathering Cloves.

Cloves are now cultivated in many of the tropical regions of the earth. A clove tree begins to bear at the age of ten years and continues until it reaches the age of seventy-five years. There are two crops a year, one in June and one in December. The tree is an evergreen and grows from forty to fifty feet high, with large oblong leaves and crimson flowers at the end of small branches in clusters of from ten to twenty. The tree belongs to the same botanical order as the guava. The cloves, which are the undeveloped buds, are at first white, then light green and at the time of gathering bright red. Pieces of white cloth are spread under the trees at harvesting time, and the branches are beaten gently with bamboo sticks until the cloves drop. They are dried in the sun, being tossed about daily until they attain the rich dark color which proclaims them ready for shipment.

Cards and Their History.

Cards are square shaped pieces of pasteboard printed with various devices and employed as a business medium by money changers. They are usually made up in packs of fifty-two, one for each week of the year. A good many people play cards for pleasure, in which case their opponents are said to be buying experience. In most card games the rule is that the cards may be cut, but not otherwise marked. This rule is not strictly observed in games in which only three cards are used. Indeed, the marking of cards has attained a high degree of perfection since the introduction of numerous card index systems. Fashions change in card games as in everything else. Old maid, for instance, is nowadays seldom played in the best clubs. Playing cards should not be confused with score cards, which are rather larger, or with visiting cards, which are smaller.—Fry's Magazine.

A Rhineland Legend.

There is a Rhineland legend of three German robbers who, having acquired by various atrocities what amounted to a very valuable booty, agreed to divide the spoil and to retire from so dangerous a vocation. When the day appointed for this purpose arrived one of them was dispatched to a neighboring town to purchase provisions for their last carousal. The other two secretly agreed to murder him on his return that they might divide his share between them. They did so. But the murdered man was a closer calculator even than his assassins, for he had previously poisoned a part of the provisions, that he might appropriate to himself the whole of the spoil. This precious triumvirate were found dead together.

Had to Get Close.

"Why are you getting so close to me, Mr. Huggins?" said the female voice from the sofa in the dark parlor. "Because I came to see you," was the reply of the male voice. "Y-e-s, I know, but—" "I'm nearsighted, you know."—Yonkers Statesman.

Making a Start

Jackson and Hughes were old friends. The former, by shrewdness and industry, earned a good income but Hughes was not so fortunate.

One day he asked his successful friend the secret of his prosperity. "Well," replied Jackson, "I'll tell it to you for $10. Be saving, of course, and when you do make a bargain with anyone be sure that no one hears you, and then if you get the worst of it or want to back out you can. Now hand me the bill."

Hughes thought a second, and then said: "Did anyone hear us make this bargain?"

"Not a soul," replied Jackson. "Well, then," was the prompt answer, "I think I'll begin on you."

"We are going to consult a specialist about our boy," said the father. "About your boy?" echoed the friend. "Why, he appears to be a perfectly healthy, rugged lad." "I know; but we have asked him time and again what he wants to be when he grows up, and he never has said that he wants to be a railway engineer."—Life.

Little Eugene, aged three, is the baby of the family. One night, after having had his supper and being put to bed, he propounded to his mother the question: "Mamma, who got my supper for me when you was little?"—Lippincott's.

ROSY-CHEEKED BABIES

Nothing in the world is such a comfort and joy as a healthy, rosy-cheeked, happy baby. But the price of Baby's health is constant vigilance on the part of the mother. The ills of babyhood come suddenly and the wise mother will always be in a position to treat them at once. No other medicine can take the place of Baby's Own Tablets in relieving and curing the ills of babyhood and childhood, and there is no other medicine as safe. Mrs. Wm. Viggers, Perretton, Ont., says:—"My baby was troubled with his stomach, and was very cross while getting his teeth, and did not sleep well at night. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets with the best results. He is now one of the best natured babies one could wish." ### A Hint From London.

"You have noticed," said E. W. Jones of St. Louis, "that in the average drug store of this country a very common sign reads like this: 'Prescriptions carefully compounded.'"

"In London, however, during a recent sojourn I noticed in the apothecary shops almost the same legend, but I like the English version better. The London druggists hang up notices to this effect: 'Prescriptions correctly compounded.'"

"It seems to me that the use of the adverb 'correctly' gives the customer a little more confidence, which is a good thing in such cases, as there isn't one man in a thousand that knows anything about the nature of the ingredients he is about to swallow."—Baltimore American.

The Paris Cat Exchange.

Paris has a cat exchange, a "bourse aux chats." This establishment is situated in a big chamber at the rear of a winery. Here are legions of cats of all sizes and color, which are to be seen jumping and heard "maulment." It is said that the customers are by no means tender hearted old ladies, but for the most part furriers, glove-makers and cooks. A good sleek "matou" realizes from 50 centimes (10 cents) to a franc (20 cents). The skin has a number of usages, and the flesh, according to the story, finds its way into the stewpans of certain restaurants possessing more enterprise than scruple.—Chicago News.

Queen Wilhelmina's Wealth.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, although rich, is not nearly so rich as the emperor of Russia or the emperor of Austria, and it is doubtful whether she has so large a fortune as the king and queen of Denmark or the king of the Belgians or even the king of the Hellenes, who has made enormous sums by successful speculations. It is also said by those supposed to know that Queen Wilhelmina has not inherited largely from numerous relatives. She inherited the fortune of her father, King William, but not a cent has come to her from any other relative.

A Turkish Lawyer.

Things are moving in Turkey, and it seems as if the advocate will no longer be looked upon as one possessing no calling nor even profession. The Young Turks have accomplished a veritable revolution. Henceforth the advocate will be permitted to have his note paper "headed" bearing his name, profession, address and even the number of his telephone. The advocate, it is true, is not yet permitted to place on the paper the hours at which he can be consulted, nor can he have a tariff of honorariums.—London Globe.

America—A British View.

A nation with a history of less than 150 years on a background of bush-rangin' can hardly be expected to appreciate the finer feelings that matured communities would see officially reflected in their collective behavior, and our diplomats at home do not appear yet to have realized the fallacy of applying European standards to American conduct.—London Saturday Review.

When Boggins, senior, on the occasion of his annual party was obliging his guests with "Tis Love That Makes the World Go Round," Master William Boggins seized the opportunity to retire for a few minutes behind the Japanese screen with his sire's half-smoked cigar.

The applause subsiding, Master Boggins was observed by one of the company to be looking far from well. His face had taken on the hue of putty and his eyes stood out like small hatpegs.

"Good gracious, Willie! What's the matter?" cried Mrs. Boggins in alarm. "I believe you have been smoking."

Willie shook his head. "Taint that," he declared untruthfully, "if it's true what father has been singing about I—re-ckon I'm in love!"

The Smallest

A conductor on a car had a good run of business on Sunday afternoon, but he had difficulty in keeping himself supplied with small change. Many persons who patronized his car handed him dollar bills in payment of their fares.

The conductor managed to get along fairly well until a woman, carrying a tiny infant, boarded his car. When he approached the woman for her fare she also handed him a dollar bill.

"Is that the smallest you have, madam?" queried the conductor. The woman looked at the conductor and then at the baby, and made this surprising reply: "Yes, I have been married only twelve months."

"Ah," she sighed, "for many years I've suffered from dyspepsia." "And don't you take anything for it?" her friend asked. "You look healthy enough." "Oh," she replied, "it's my husband that has it."

The woman emancipationist had tackled the serene old bachelor, and was reading the Riot Act to him. He squirmed occasionally, but he retained his serenity. "Have you ever done anything for the emancipation of woman, I'd like to know?" she asked. "Indeed I have, madame," he smiled. "I have remained a bachelor."

MAGISTRATE'S SKIN DISEASE CURED

Magistrate F. Rasmussen, of 217, Marquette Street, Montreal, writes to the Zam-Buk Co. as follows:—

"Gentlemen,—For many years I was troubled with a serious eruption of the skin, which was not only unsightly, but at times very painful. I first tried various household remedies, but all these proved altogether useless.

"I then took medical advice. Not one, but several doctors in turn were consulted, but I was unable to get any permanent relief. Some time back I noticed a report from a Justice of the Peace who had been cured of a chronic skin-disease by Zam-Buk, and I determined to give this balm a trial.

"After a thoroughly fair test, I can say I am delighted with it. I have the best reasons for this conclusion; because, while everything else I tried—salves, embrocations, washes, soaps, and doctors' preparations—failed absolutely to relieve my pain and rid me of my trouble, three boxes of Zam-Buk have worked a complete cure.

"In my opinion Zam-Buk should be even more widely known than it is, and I have no objection to your publishing this letter."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetter, itch, ringworm, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood-poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 25 cents a box, or post free for price from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

It is in Demand.—So great is the demand for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that a large factory is kept continually busy making and bottling it. ### A WESLEY RELIC.

Manuscript of Rare Value Is Found In Toronto.

A copy of a letter written by John Wesley, has been discovered quite recently in Toronto in an old book.

The Wesley manuscript is the ordination papers of the Rev. Thomas Coke, D.C.L., the first superintendent of the Methodist church in North America, and was written by John Wesley, who appointed Dr. Coke to the position on September 2, 1784.

The following is a short sketch of the events which led up to Dr. Coke's appointment:

After the American Revolution many of Wesley's early helpers were driven out of the United States on the charge of being British sympathizers, and from 1773-1783 the minutes of the English Methodist Conference contain no records of the work done in America. Also from 1773-1784 there were no published minutes of the American Methodist Conference.

Wesley had intended the Methodist organizations in America to be dependent on the Church of England clergymen for the administration of the Sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, but the Civil War destroyed all possibility of it. Twice he wrote to Lowth, Bishop of London, asking him to ordain some of the Methodist helpers, and thus give them authority to administer these sacraments, but Lowth refused, stating that there were three Church of England clergymen in America already.

After waiting in vain for four years, Wesley, assisted by Rev. Creighton, ordained Thomas Coke.

The ordination paper in Wesley's handwriting is as follows:

To all to whom these Presents shall come, John Wesley, late Fellow of Lincoln College in Oxford, Presbyter of the Church of England, sendeth greeting.

Whereas many of the People in the Southern Provinces of North America, who desire to continue under my care, and still adhere to the Doctrines and Discipline of the Church of England are greatly distressed for want of ministers to administer the Sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, according to the usage of the said Church; And whereas there does not appear to be any other way of supplying them with ministers:

Know all men, that I, John Wesley, think myself to be providentially called at this time to set apart some persons for the work of the ministry in America. And therefore under the Protection of Almighty God, and with a single eye to his Glory, I have this day set apart as a Superintendent, by the imposition of my hands and prayer (being assisted by other ordained ministers), Thomas Coke, Doctor of Civil Law, a Presbyter of the Church of England, and a man whom I judge to be well qualified for that great work. And I do hereby recommend him to all whom it may concern as a fit person to preside over the Flock of Christ. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this second day of September in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four.

JOHN WESLEY.

Looked Like a Canadian.

In a Police Court in Old London the other day a detective gave evidence against a band of confidence men, and told the magistrate that their leader first approached a man at Waterloo station who "had the appearance of a Canadian." He did not enlighten the court as to what a Canadian appearance was; but the incident recalls one which took place in London last year, when a bevy of girls was sent over as part of an advertising scheme for the girls got lost in the British Museum or some place of that kind, and was compelled to ask the good offices of a "bobby." She told him of her plight and asked to be directed to the private hotel at which the party was staying, adding the chance remark that she was a visitor from Canada and did not know her way about. The "copper" surprised her very much by retorting:

"Ho, Miss, yer needn't 'ave told me. I knew you was a Canadian the moment I clapped my eyes 'on yer!'" And the girl from Glengarry has always wanted to know how the constable knew. Can it be that there is really a "Canadian appearance" and that the London police have got us classified? It is an interesting point. Perhaps Doctor Colquhoun, who is just back from a trip to the "Big Smoke," could solve the riddle: "What is the Canadian appearance?"

Canadian Gig Infantry.

After an eleven day journey across country from St. Catharines, a detachment of four officers of the gig infantry arrived in Petawawa camp a few days ago. They include Captain Wilson, 9th Mississauga Horse, Toronto, in charge and Captain Snyder, 9th Horse, Toronto, Lieut. Corzens, 19th Regiment, St. Catharines, and Lieut. Suydam, Queens' Own Rifles, Toronto.

The party left St. Catharines, on July 31, traveling overland to Toronto, where a day's halt was made. Leaving Toronto, the journey was made via Richmond Hill, Beaverton, Kilmount, Combermere, Golden Lake and Pembroke to the camp.

The gig infantry is the idea of Capt. Leonard of the Corps of Guides, St. Catharines. The gig has not yet been adopted by the Government. An outfit of tent, blankets, shovels, etc., and provisions for horses and men for fourteen days is carried.

The distance traveled by the detachment of the gig was 425 miles, an average of 40 miles per day being made. One horse is used on each gig.

NERVOUS DISORDERS

Promptly Cured by the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

If your hand trembles or is unsteady, remember that this is a sure and early sign of your nervous system being at fault. The mischief may develop slowly to a worse stage. You feel unaccountably weak and weary after exertion; you loose flesh; you turn against food and suffer palpitations and indigestion after eating. At times you are intensely irritable; greatly depressed and easily worried. Sometimes sharp pains shoot down your spine and legs and probably neuralgia robs you of your sleep at night. These are some of the troubles that indicate the presence of nervous disorders. If these troubles are neglected they result in complete nervous collapse and possibly paralysis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have won a great reputation by curing all forms of nervous disease. The nervous system depends entirely upon the blood supply for nourishment; when the blood is thin and weak the nerves are affected as described. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually increase the supply of good red blood, feed, strengthen and tone the nerves, enable them to perform their functions and dispel all signs of a breakdown.

Mrs. Jas. H. Ward, Lord's Cove, N.B., says: "About two years ago I suffered so much from nervous prostration that I was little better than a helpless wreck. I suffered from headaches and a constant feeling of dizziness. The least unusual move would startle me and set my heart palpitating violently. I had little or no appetite, and grew so weak that I was hardly able to drag myself about, and could not do my housework. In every way I was in a deplorable condition. As the medicine I had been taking seemed to do me no good, my husband got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had only been taking the Pills for a couple of weeks, when I seemed to feel somewhat better, and this encouraged me to continue the treatment. From that on my strength gradually but surely returned, and in the course of a few more weeks I was once more a well woman, able to do my own housework and feeling better than I had done for years. I have since remained well and feel that I owe my good health to the healing powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Every other weak, sickly, worn out, nervous person should follow the example of Mrs. Ward and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These Pills will send new blood coursing through the veins and bring brightness and energy to the weak and despondent. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALL NIGHT SESSIONS.

These Are Weary Times in the British Commons.

In normal times all opposed business in the House of Commons stops at eleven o'clock; and a few minutes later the light on the Clock Tower, which tells London that the representatives of the people are at work, is extinguished. But there are occasions every session when members are unable to get away from Westminster till the small and wan hours of the morning. The House has to sit up all night to get on with a Bill which the Government declare is urgently needed in the people's interest, but which the Opposition protest would bring still closer the downfall of the nation.

Once a late sitting of the House begins it is rarely possible to tell how long it will last. All depends upon whether a spirit of good-will or hostility is developed between the two sides by the progress of events. The outcome is always uncertain. Often a word dropped by the Minister in charge of the Bill or the Leader of the Opposition, according as it is bitter or conciliatory, brings about an abrupt ending of the proceedings or arouses on each side a grim determination to fight to the bitter end.

Discussion goes on unceasingly through the night. It is carried on almost entirely by a few members of the Opposition who possess the capacity of talkativeness. The Minister in charge of the Bill sits on the Treasury Bench and intervenes as little as possible. When he rises it is to say a few words in rejection of a new amendment proposed by the Opposition or to move the closure. A few of his colleagues lend him the light of their countenances through the night, but not the help of their tongues. As a rule, each Minister has to fight his own battles unaided, save by the law officers when points of law are in dispute.

A few years ago, during an unexpected all-night sitting, the food supplies laid in advance were soon exhausted, and waiters had to be sent out to forage for more.

As the shops were not yet opened, the proprietors of a coffee van and a hot-potato stove, discovered on the south side of Westminster Bridge, were induced, by the offer of liberal terms, to part with their stocks for the use of Members of Parliament. The following night each of them displayed a large card with the inscription—"Caterers to the House of Commons."

Dean Hole's Story.

A young curate, a good fellow, but very shy and bashful, came into a parish which was occupied by Yorkshire yeomen, who bred horses and rode them—and sometimes had steeplechases. He did not get on, and was very much depressed. One day the clerk said to him, "If you please, sir, the prayers of the Church are desired for Lucy Gray."

"Very well," said the curate. And at every service in which the prayer for all sorts and conditions of men was offered the Church was asked to pray for Lucy Gray, till one morning the clerk rushed into the vestry, and said, "You needn't pray for Lucy Gray any more—she's won the steeplechase."

"Have I been praying for a horse?" asked the curate. "I shall leave the place."

But the clerk said, "You'll do nowt o' sort, sir; I thought little of ye when ye came, but now ye've got the hearts of them all, and ye can do what ye like in this parish since we took to praying for that horse."—From "The Letters of Samuel Hole, Dean of Rochester."

Doctor's A.O.T. Magic Cure.

For thirty years, Sir Samuel Wilks, who will shortly celebrate his 85th birthday, has been the family doctor to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. In his younger days the distinguished physician visited the East End, where a friend had lately started a practice. Sir Samuel stayed with his friend while the latter received his patients. One day, while sitting in the surgery, he noticed on a shelf a number of bottles of physic, all but one of which he recognized by the technical names as harmless concoctions. He was rather anxious to know what the bottle labelled "A. O. T." contained, so he took it from the shelf and smelt the colorless fluid. "What in the name of goodness is this?" he asked. "That," said his friend, carelessly—"Oh, that's Any Old Thing, warranted to cure imaginary complaints!" For many years, Sir Samuel was physician and lecturer on medicine at Guy's Hospital, and also editor of the hospital reports.

London Children and Alcohol.

A great hubbub, participated in chiefly by medical men, temperance workers and teachers, is stirring England as the result of the statement of F. G. Mackereth, in the current number of The Lancet, that 40 per cent. of the London school children under the age of eight drink alcohol more or less regularly. Mackereth says he got his figures from several of the London County Council infant schools.

"There appears no doubt," he says, "that a similar state of things exist in every part of Christian Europe, excepting in the countries of the farthest north. It would be interesting to learn whether the figures I obtained from schools chosen haphazard are true of the rest of the country."

"In one school of some three hundred infants, I found that 11.8 per cent. drank alcohol daily; 34.1 per cent. drank occasionally, and 5.4 per cent. were members of the Band of Hope."

If every housekeeper would use Wilson's Fly Pads freely during the Summer months the house fly peril would soon be a thing of the past.

The Big Store is doing a land-office business and has had to send extra teams into town to supply the people with good things to eat and wear.

Knee Hill Creek school will start up next week. The boys hope she will be young and pretty and the bachelors are getting tired of their own cooking.

Fetting & Hall had a party of landseekers out in the Curlew district the past week. They took dinner at W J Lindsley's and were delighted with the dinner and country.

Harry Dudley, who purchased the Curlew Hotel from W S Reed a short time ago reports business rushing this fall. Nearly all his rooms are full with those passing thru the district from Olds to Trochu with landseekers.

If nothing happens we will have a railroad in a few more weeks that will be a Godsend to this section. Crews are at work near Sunnyslope and they should reach Curlew section in four or five weeks at the outside.

A new bunch of surveyors were at work just east of Curlew recently but they would tell nothing. It may be the same crew that has been coming up from the south. Some there are who think the Great Northern are stealing a march on the other roads and we hope it is so.

Mayville News

Moses Ostwein of Mayton, went to Bowden on Thursday to buy lumber from the Crown Lumber Co to build a fine henhouse which he intends making 12ft. by 20ft. He reports that threshing is in full swing.

D Miller expects to leave for the west soon where he will spend the winter.

Care should be taken now about fires, and those smoking should see to it that their "pipes are out" before taking any "pipe dreams."

The editor of the Bowden News and T Walburn were in our section the past week. They were delighted with this district, and also enjoyed a duck hunt.

Geo Pickering is building a fine new store building to his large house this week. It will join the house on the north and will give Mr Pickering more room for his Stop-in-House accommodations.

The busy hum of the threshing machine is now heard on every hand, and the golden grain is rewarding the farmers for their hard work the past six months. All the grain is in shock, and most of it is in the stack.

Everybody is going to the Milnerton on Oct. 6th. Every effort is being put forth by the officials to make this a banner year.

Miss Nolan, teacher at Milnerton, who has been very ill for some time with pneumonia, we are sorry to say is not improving very rapidly. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

David Wilson, who has disposed of his store here to Wilton Bros. of London, Ont., left last week for Vancouver. It is believed that he intends entering the produce business there.

On Monday evening, Oct. 4th, an old time harvest festival will be held at the Knee Hill Valley School at 7.30. Supper will be served after which a concert consisting of addresses and local talent program will be rendered. Receipts to go in aid of mission fund.

Wilton Bros at the store, are endeavoring to enlarge their business, putting in new counters, enlarging the store and painting the inside. Joseph Carl is doing the work. The store is doing a rushing business under the new management, as larger stocks are being carried and lower prices which are a great inducement in drawing customers from far and near. Let everybody boom the store and get ready for the incoming railway.

CANADA'S PROSPERITY

MANUFACTURERS' ASSN. HOLD A SUCCESSFUL BANQUET.

Company of Distinguished Canadians Gather to Discuss Important Topics—Canada is Making Rapid Strides in the Commercial World—Man for Man Dominion is More Prosperous than the United States.

Hamilton.—At a banquet of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, a number of prominent personages were present, including Lord Strathcona, Lieut.-Gov. Gibson, Hon. G. P. Graham, Hon. Wm. Patterson, Hon. W. L. M. King, Mayor McLaren, and several hundred prominent manufacturers from the east to the west. The new president, J. Hendery, of Vancouver, in giving Lord Strathcona a greeting, said the association was honored to have as their guest a man who had done more perhaps than any other living man for the development of the great western provinces, promising a settlement and linking them with steel bands to the other provinces. As to their request for a tariff commission, Pres. Hendery said the manufacturers did not desire to profit at the expense of the rest of the community. A conservative commission would confer great benefits to all. His own province on the Pacific coast would see an immense increased traffic investment. They were ready both for imperial defence and imperial commerce.

Lord Strathcona, in replying, said he occupied the position of the extreme protectionist and the ardent free trader. Referring humorously to the regulation against the Ontario government's Niagara policy, he said the men who brought the power from the falls were looked upon as absolute scoundrels.

Hon. G. P. Graham said they were now part proprietors of the British empire and doing their share to build it up. The canal traffic this year amounted to 8,327,000 tons and he expected it would reach 25,000,000 before the end of the season. The railways showed a similar prosperity and the banks showed the ability of Canada to withstand hard times. Man for man Canada did a much greater trade than the United States, Canada having a trade of $88 per head while the United States had only $42 per head. The banks showed an increase in deposits in 10 years of $430,000,000 while they also had $794,000,000 in circulation, an increase in 10 years of $540,000,000.

Hustling to Find the South Pole
London.—The report which has reached here that Commander Peary and Captain Bartlett have decided on a South Pole expedition will create a great stir in geographical circles. Although Capt. Robert E. Scott's expedition was decided upon before the arrival of the news of the Cook and Peary exploits, it admittedly was pressed forward with the intention to forestall a possible American expedition, and because of quickened interest in polar exploration, evidenced by the projected German and Belgium expeditions to the Antarctic.

Capt. Scott's expedition still depends upon the reaching of the necessary funds, at least $200,000 being required. A considerable portion of this has already been promised, and there is little doubt that the report that Commander Peary is likely to start for the south pole will stimulate the public and hasten the subscription on the remainder. The government has not as yet announced its intention of assisting the enterprise financially, but it may be taken for granted that that will be done.

Canada Protests Against Incivility
Ottawa.—The railway commission issued an order to the railway conductors on lines doing international business to see that there is no undue interference with passengers in Canada by United States immigration officials. Conductors must report all cases of incivility. In issuing the order, Chairman Maybee said he had received over fifty complaints against American officials, who are alleged to have made themselves obnoxious to passengers travelling in Canadian territory. On behalf of the railways it was explained that the privilege granted to American immigration officials of examining passengers on trains was a reciprocal arrangement to prevent trains being delayed at the border.

Antarctic Expedition and Wireless
London.—An interesting feature of the British Antarctic expedition will be an attempt to keep in communication with the world by means of aerograph. "We shall be about 2,200 miles from the nearest radiograph station, which is in New Zealand," said Captain Scott, the commander of the expedition, "but at the rate at which this science is developing we may by the time we get to the Antarctic be able to send, and undoubtedly will, receive messages. We shall not carry portable apparatus, but will have wireless stations at our bases of supplies."

Learn From Beresford
London.—The Standard hopes the Canadian government will learn from Lord Beresford something of what the navy really means in actual practice for we may be forgiven for observing that the Dominion, although she has two seaboard, is still at all intents and purposes an inland state with little idea of what an inland state really is.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN

Report That a Half Million Soldiers Are at Present in Siberia Preparing for War

Victoria, B.C.—Russia is massing a great army in Siberia, four or five barracks are being built and extensive fortifications made, and speculation as to a second war with Japan is a common topic of conversation among the Russian military men, said A. B. Denbigh, a Russian, who returned from Siberia and Mongolia, by the steamer Kagamatu.

"I was told that there were at least five hundred thousand troops in Siberia," said Mr. Denbigh, "troops are quartered everywhere. The number of troops are from four to five times the number in Siberia before the war. At Vladivostok, before I left, there was a review of fifty-five thousand troops, and not one man was taken from the fortifications. I suppose at least as many more could have been paraded."

Mr. Denbigh brought news of a rich gold discovery made by Russians in Mongolia, about fifty or sixty miles distant from Kiskia, the big walled city, which has been for centuries one of the stopping places of the tea caravans from China. An average of twenty pounds of gold is being washed from the river banks with rockers daily.

Bishop and Salvation Army

London.—General Booth visited Hereford recently and was the guest of the Bishop of Hereford. Addressing a meeting at the town hall, General Booth said he could assure them that not a penny of the army's funds went to the support of himself or his family. The Bishop of Hereford wished the army Godspeed, and said he was reminded by General Booth's work of Wesley in another century.

General Booth visited Walverhampton, and was received by the mayor and members of the town council. Addressing a huge meeting in the Empire Palace, over which the mayor presided, General Booth said that vile statements concerning the army were made years ago. He was then said to be a cruel despot, grinding the faces of poor people, accumulating a huge fortune, living in luxury in a princely mansion, and riding about in beautiful motor cars bought out of the army's coffers. A great change, however, had come over the spirit of the times and the people and on the occasion of his eightieth birthday royalties, governments and presidents had congratulated him. The army work had shown the growing indifference to religion of the masses of the people, high or low, rich or poor. There were the vicious and the drunken classes, and there was still enough waste humanity to form a hundred thousand more armies.

The Rajah Did Not Settle

London.—An attempt was made in the House of Commons recently to give publicity to charges against Jam Nawanagar, a rajah of India, who, before his accession, was popularly known as Prince Ranji, one of the most famous of living cricketers. The charges are that on his last visit to England Jam Nawanagar ran up innumerable bills and then returned home without paying any of them. The affair created a scandal at the time, and Johnson Hicks, a member of parliament, asked the India office whether the government was aware that Jam Nawanagar had left England owing a great amount of money, chiefly to small shopkeepers in Sussex. He was unable to obtain an answer.

An International Problem

Honolulu.—Under a deed just filed here William G. Irwin, a British subject, is the owner of the Island of Lanai, in the Hawaiian group, which is now American territory. The deed was made to Irwin by Charles Cay, who acquired the island from the territorial government several years ago. When Cay bought the island, L. L. McCandless protested against any private person owning the land and he carried the matter to the United States supreme court, which decided in favor of the territory. Now the question arises whether a British subject can own an American island. Lanai has 600 population, mostly laborers.

Winnipeg Wants Highland Regiment

Ottawa.—An application has been forwarded to the militia department by the district officer commanding at Winnipeg for the formation of a regiment of Highlanders in that city. The application has not yet been considered by the militia council and probably will not be dealt with for some weeks pending the return of Sir Frederick Borden from England. Several other applications for the formation of new regiments have been before the department for some months, but until the necessary vote to defray the expense has been passed by parliament the department has no authority to grant money for such purposes.

Vesuvius Again Active

Rome.—A despatch from Portici, on the Bay of Naples, to the Giornale d'Italia says that Vesuvius is again active. Guides report rumblings followed by slight internal upheavals. The craters have been unusually active in the last few days.

Lethbridge Growing

Lethbridge.—Henderson's directory publishes the population of Lethbridge, exclusive of villages at No. 3 and No. 6 shafts at 9,000. With these, which are just outside the corporation, it is over 10,000.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson XIII.—Third Quarter, For Sept. 26, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. x. 23-33. Memory Verses, 24—Golden Text, Rom. xv. 2—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This epistle is divided into several sections, beginning with the words "Now, concerning," or "Now, as touching" (vii. 1; viii. 1; xii. 1; xvi. 1), and our lesson is in the portion which begins with viii. 1. "Now, as touching things offered unto idols." While recognizing that our idol is nothing and that meat commendeth us not to God, yet he says, "If meat make my brother to offend I will eat no flesh while the world standeth lest I make my brother to offend" (viii. 13). Whatever he did or refrained from doing it was for the gospel's sake lest the gospel of Christ should be hindered and that he might by all means save some (ix. 22, 23). Referring to some events in the history of Israel, he says that all these things happened to them for our examples and admonition, and he reminds us that God is faithful, who will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able (x. 13). He would have us know that all our life is either unto God or the devil and that, while we may lawfully do certain things, we must not come under the power of anything or any one but the Lord alone (vi. 12; x. 23).

God having made us no rich in Christ that all things are ours, things present and things to come (iii. 21-23), we are not here to seek anything for ourselves, but only the welfare of others that they, too, may be saved and have the same riches in Christ and then go out to seek others (xi. 33). Love seeketh not her own, and He who was God manifest in the flesh never lived to please Himself nor to seek His own will or glory in anything (xiii. 5; Rom. xv. 3; John v. 30; vi. 38; viii. 50). Paul had to write to the Philippians, "All seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's." "Many walk, of whom I have told you often and now tell you even weeping that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ, whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things" (Phil. ii. 21; iii. 18, 19).

The twice repeated saying in verses 26, 28, "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof," is from the psalm which speaks of those with clean hands and pure hearts who seek the God of Jacob and open wide the gates to the King of Glory. When He is on the throne of our hearts we will not be heard asking silly questions about what we may eat or not eat, nor will we bow down to any idols within or without, but the one supreme thought will always be to please Him, to honor Him, to magnify Him, so that others may want to know Him to whom we have by His grace become so devoted. When we become thus spirit filled, drunken with the new wine of the kingdom, filled with joy and peace by believing, some will be drawn away from the beastly drunkenness of earthly things to the love that is better than wine, for which so many souls are longing all unconsciously. Is it not because the poor worldling sees nothing in professing Christians that can begin to compare with his "pleasures of sin for a season" that he holds on to his evil ways? The God of this world, under whose control the children of disobedience live, says to his blinded ones concerning the church people, so called: "Look at them. They go to church and sing and pray on Sunday, and the rest of the week they come to us in order to be happy. I'll do better for you than their God. Come my way all the time. Let us eat and drink and be merry, for there is no take of fire nor place of torment. No men of learning believe the Bible any more, and Jesus was only a good man who did wondrously while he lived, but He is gone, and there are no more like Him."

Does this sound familiar? Is it all about you? Do you hear it on every side? Then let it be a proof to you that the whole world lieth in the wicked one, the father of lies, a murderer from the beginning, for whom the everlasting fire has been prepared, and turn from him and all his lies to Him who gave Himself for our sins that He might deliver us from the wrath to come and from this present evil age (I Thess. i. 10; Gal. i. 4), and if you do not have many lives that commend Him to others let yours be one by His grace that shall tell for Him every day and everywhere, a life that even in eating and drinking as well as in all other things shall glorify God (verse 31) and adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour (Tit. ii. 10).

The phrase "giving no offense" in verse 32 takes us to II Cor. vi. 3, "giving no offense in anything that the ministry be not blamed," and back to Rom. xiv. 13, "Let us not, therefore, judge one another any more, but judge this rather that no man put a stumbling block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way." People are either being pointed heavenward or stumbling hellward by our everyday life. Let us from this time live wholly unto the Lord. Dispersational truth is most helpful in this matter and is suggested by verse 32, which reminds us that now, in this age, the church of God is being gathered from Jews and gentiles and to this end we should live the life of which we have been speaking; then at the beginning of the next age all Israel shall be saved and then all the nations.

Poor Must Have Same Show as Rich
Chicago.—President Taft, during a stay of twelve hours in Chicago, plunged with a will into the long programme of entertaining those that wait on his long western and southern trip.

Mr. Taft devoted the entire first part of his speech at the Orchestra hall to the subject of labor, and said he intended to recommend to congress in his first message legislation to carry out the promise as to injunctions—that no injunction or restraining order should be issued without notice, except irreparable injury would result from delay, in which case a speedy hearing should be granted.

The president declared anew his belief in organized labor, and congratulated the leaders of the movement that "they have set their faces like flint against the doctrines of Socialism."

Taking up next the subject of the courts, the president asserted with earnest emphasis that the administration of criminal law is a disgrace to American civilization. Ashamed of the fact, as Americans might well be, he declared that the poor man has not now an equal opportunity with the rich litigant, and said it was his purpose to do what he could to place the poor man on a more equal footing.

Alberta Red Weighs 66 lbs per Bushel

Calgary, Alta.—The heaviest wheat of the season was recently submitted to Grain Inspector Hill, who, after testing it, announced that it weighs 66 pounds to the bushel. It is Alberta red and was grown at Bassano, Bow River valley, and is the finest sample submitted this year to the local grain inspector. The wheat is so full and plump that the Alberta Pacific Elevator company have offered a premium for the entire crop. A few years ago Bassano was famed as a live stock centre; today it provides the province with the heaviest winter wheat.

Shipments of grain out of Calgary have averaged about thirty cars daily for several days past. The crop report issued by the Canadian Pacific shows that the Gleichen district will probably give the banner yields of the province, the wheat to date from that locality averages 40 bushels, barley 45 and oats 65 bushels per acre.

Analysis of Food

Ottawa.—Anthony McGill, chief analyst for the department of inland revenue, has issued a bulletin giving the results of an analysis of 23 brands of infants' and invalids' foods sold in Canada. No similar analysis has been made since 1898, when 22 brands were reported on. Mr. McGill reports that the present inspection shows a greatly increased percentage of matters soluble in alcohol and in water, in other words, in sugars and soluble starch. This is a feature which gives the food an increased value. Mr. McGill, however, remarks that some of the foods which are directed to be prepared by water, rather than milk, would seem to provide a starvation diet for infants, so far as fat is concerned.

Explorations in Greenland

Edinburgh.—William S. Bruce, the Arctic explorer, has arrived here. He speaks enthusiastically of the success of his latest expedition, which he believes will be of great scientific value. Besides practically completing the survey of Prince Charles foreland, the expedition crossed the mainland to Spitzbergen from Ice Fiord to Star Fiord over the inland ice fields and glaciers. The geological investigations seem to confirm the belief in the existence of important coal mines, which Mr. Bruce thinks can be worked at a profit.

G. T. P. from Winnipeg to Ft. William

Winnipeg.—The transcontinental is preparing for opening the Lake Superior division from Winnipeg to Fort William, and A. A. Tisdale was appointed superintendent, to assume his duties on October 1. This division of the system includes the 450 miles between Fort William and Winnipeg, and Mr. Tisdale's headquarters will be at the former place. He will have control of the terminals at West Fort and Fort William.

Mexican Reports Exaggerated

Washington.—The excitement in Mexico at this time, in the opinion of officials of the state department who are in a position to know, is no greater than that attending a presidential campaign in the United States. Reports of impending civil war in the neighboring republic fail utterly to agitate them.

School Land Sales to be Held in Alta.

Winnipeg.—Wm. Ingram, commissioner of school lands, will hold a number of sales during the coming fall. Six of these will be at Manitoba points, viz.: Laurier, Dauphin, Grandview, Robin, Winnipegosis and Swan River. Three in Alberta will be held at Lacombe, Stettler and Edmonton and one in Saskatchewan at Zelandia.

SHIP GRAIN TO COAST

PRESIDENT OF THE C.P.R. GIVES INTERESTING INTERVIEW.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy States That the C.P.R. will Continue to Ship Grain to the Coast to Build up Markets there—Railway Construction Work Being Pushed this Year—No Shortage of Cars to Handle Crop.

Calgary.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R., paid a brief visit to this city, before proceeding to the coast, on a trip of inspection. Speaking to a deputation of local grain men, Sir Thomas said:

"You people are confident that Vancouver will make a desirable grain terminus and you want us to co-operate with you to make it so. The matter rests with Mr. Whyte and myself, and we will talk it over. We are not narrow minded, our interests are the same as yours, and if we decide that it is the right and best thing to do to establish big bulk storage warehouses and elevators there, we will not let a little money stand in our way."

In talking about railroad matters he said that the Wetaskiwin branch line was practically finished and he had been assured that it would be all finished next month. The grading on the Stettler line was also finished and the line was making satisfactory headway. The line from Langdon now being built would be rushed ahead as rapidly as possible, "and you can also say," he said, "that it will be extended further east as the development of the country warrants it."

Regarding the grain crop Sir Thomas was very optimistic and was certain that it would be the best crop yet harvested in the west. Will there be lots of cars this year, was asked, and to this he replied that he anticipated no trouble in this respect.

"There will be no shortage whatever," he said. "We have ample cars to move the grain and I do not anticipate any difficulty whatever."

The deputation of grain men who waited on Sir Thomas, were all members of the local grain exchange. They were received very courteously, and after the meeting Mr. L. P. Strong, who acted as spokesman, stated that they had received great encouragement. "So much so," he said, "that we will still continue sending some grain west to build up the markets there and encourage them in the expectation that next year will see storage facilities there large enough to accommodate the whole crop. This is an expensive proposition at the present time and one which the grain men would not be able to consider if we did not have the hope that ultimately we will get storage facilities there."

Sir Thomas stated that the C.P.R. was quite ready to act as soon as they were convinced that this was the right step, but that they did not want to do anything now which would afterwards prove a mistake.

"We would probably make more money by taking the grain to the west than east to Fort William," he said, "and if we find that it is the right thing to do we will certainly do it."

Pellagra a Serious Danger

Washington.—Expressing a confirmed belief that "Pellagra" is likely to become in this country a public health problem of greater proportions than can at the present time be realized, C. H. Lavinder, past assistant surgeon public health and marine hospital service, has just reported results of his investigation of the prevalence of that disease in the Illinois state hospital for the insane, to Surgeon General Wyman.

There are in the neighborhood of forty or fifty well defined cases of Pellagra in the institution, according to Dr. Lavinder. He was unable to assign any satisfactory local cause for the extent of the disease in the hospital.

Asiatic Smuggling

Kingston.—A United States detective is here in regard to the smuggling of Chinese into New York state. He found there have been agencies of Chinese smuggling. A woman detective from New York is also here in regard to Japanese smuggling and found that several Japanese got across from Kingston not long ago.

The customs officials are making a determined effort to lessen the smuggling of goods from Kingston. One woman had to pay $225 duty on goods bought in Kingston and found secreted on her person.

France at Winnipeg Centennial

Winnipeg.—Commissioners of the French government are here conferring with the exposition committee. They state it is the intention of the French government to send an exhibit to Winnipeg in 1912 which will outclass all other countries. At Seattle the premier exhibit is that of the United States, France taking second place. However, at Winnipeg in 1912 the French are determined to lead the world in quantity and quality of goods displayed.

Another Bunch of Harvesters

Winnipeg.—The C.P.R. has decided on account of the great demand for men, to run one more harvesters' excursion from the eastern provinces. It is expected that 2,000 men will be brought out. That will mean 20,000 men this season. It is expected that about 7,000 men will remain in the west.

C. J. Sorensen has purchased the F. Stevens bakery and fruit store and took possession Tuesday. He will discontinue serving meals but will increase the fruit and bakery departments.

We have one of Mr. Kremer's sale bills to hand and amongst numerous articles for sale we see "one chest linen drawers." We are wondering how many linen drawers Mr. Kremer uses—also if he intends cutting them out and trying Union Suits this winter.

C. J. Sorensen, our hustling real estate man is giving $10 cash prize for the best exhibit of farm produce from one farm. Two prizes $7 and $3 will be given. Be sure to win this prize.

The Near Future—Good morning! "Have you been to the north pole yet?" "No." "Let us take a walk there and be back for breakfast."—The Millet Packet.

Look out for the Methodist harvest home services and festival, Oct. 24th and 26th.

E. A. Shenfield had a narrow escape Wednesday in taking mail to the 4:30 train. A freight train was on siding and would not open for the traffic to pass from the town to the depot. The mail conductor, Shenfield, was taking the mail over as usual, and the freight train would not divide the train so that he could get thru, so he started to crawl underneath when the train started up, and it was as if that he had the presence of mind to spring backwards. As it was, the rear truck struck him on the shoulder, and knocked him to the ground. Mr. Tatum, manager of the Union Bank, who had kindly taken the sack from him was no doubt the means of saving his life. Something should be done to compel the freights to open up when passengers are passing thru town. The editor has had to crawl thru several times to meet the passenger train, and that is something we do not like to do, and if the company does not do something about it a complaint should be lodged with the railroad commissioners in regard to the matter.

Wanted

150 head of Steers: ages from 7 months to three years old. State price and quality.

JOHN F. WILSON,

Badly hurt in Runaway

Geo. Whitelock who lives just west of town was badly hurt by being thrown out of a rig and the team dragging him for some distance. At first it was thought that he was fatally injured but we are glad to say that he is able to be around again. Altho Mr. Whitelock is past sixty he is very spry for his age, and is a hustler when it comes to work.

Good Roads Question

Now that the fall work is getting along in good shape the question of good roads should occupy the farmers' attention. Next spring they will be in poor condition again and who will be to blame. Do not wait until it freezes up and then say you did not have time last fall.

Summit News

Mrs. Bore and Leigh were in Bowden on Saturday.

Miss Maud Langton paid a visit to Summit school on Monday last.

The harvesting is completed around here and the next item on the program will be threshing.

Messrs. West and Gale drove thru this district on Saturday last and no doubt enjoyed the beautiful scenery.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stark and son Harold, visited some of their Eastern friends last Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Fred Brewster of Bowden, was around this district last week buying cattle, which he intends shipping to British Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Greer and Marie spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. Arthur Boyd. Arthur wears the smile that won't come off since Aug. 24th.

A number of people from this part attended Olds Fair last week. Have not yet learned if they got any red tickets. They should be loyal to Bowden Fair, and on Oct. 13th take along grain, vegetables, flowers, etc., second to none in Sunny Alberta.

The Bowden correspondent to the "Innisfail Province" is evidently tired of the building progress of Mr. S. L. Boyd's barn. Perhaps he will be pleased to learn that the second story is almost full of hay and in a short time it will contain a great many bushels of banner grain. "The best in the west." He must feel fairly that he has not one as large, and not as well filled or perhaps he is disappointed that there was not a "hop" by way of listening to new barn. When there are any births, marriages or deaths to be reported the reading public will certainly have their attention drawn to them.

The sales of Summit S.D. met together last Thursday, Sept. 16th, at 3 o'clock for the purpose of arranging matters pertaining to the coming concert. Mrs. Langton was Chairman, while Miss Skitch acted as Secretary. The following committees were appointed: Decorating: Messdames Stark, Rutledge, Trinder, Leve and Miss Smith. Lunch: Messdames Taylor and Middlemiss and the Messes Boyd. Program: Misses Skitch, Langton, Lowe, Rutledge and Loughheed. The choir Board will serve on all committees. A good program of recitations, dialogues, readings etc. is being prepared. The Bowden Orchestra will be present and furnish music during the evening. Everyone in the district will be expected to bring a basket. Bachelors may take their choice of salad, lemon pie or angel cake or a little bit of everything and this will be a splendid opportunity of showing their skill in domestic science.

We Lead Them All

Lake View Locals

Land seekers are getting thick. Show them a good time.

Don't miss the Milnerton fair on Oct. 6—it will be a hummer.

A. E. Dahl and Andrew Hansen were visitors at Innisfail the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hepburn arrived the past week and will spend some time visiting their son Percy.

Mrs. W. M. Merrill who left recently for Manitoba, writes that she is enjoying her visit very much. But that the crops there are not as good as they are here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dreeschen are enjoying a visit from relatives in Iowa, and they are so well pleased with our country and they will sell their land there that is worth $150 per acre and buy and settle in this section. They all get the fever if they once see our beautiful section.

One trip over this valley will convince any one that Lake View is the place—the promised land. The bumper crops will bring hundreds to our district, and we should all do all we can to entertain the visitors and show the valley to the best advantage. The big grain stacks and busy threshing machines will do the rest.
